K.I. Sawyer Woman Eyes End Of Husband-Less Holiday Era

MARQUETTE (AP) — Mrs. Linda Abbott, whose husband has been a prisoner of the North Vietnamese since 1967, marked her third consecutive husband-less Thanksgiving Thursday and expressed hope "things will be better next year."

The 25-year-old schoolteacher said she had heard a couple of times from her husband, Air Force Capt. Robert A. Abbott, 27, since he was shot down in April, 1967.

Name On List
The latest occasion was Wednesday when Abbott's name was included among a list of 59 servicemen held as war prisoners by North Vietnam.

The list was made public in Chicago by Rennie Davis, a leader of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. Davis, who said he got the list from a member of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks, is one of seven defendants currently on trial in Chicago on federal charges of inciting a riot during the Democratic convention in 1968.

Roster Confirmed
Pentagon sources confirmed that the 59 names on the roster released by Davis were among those on the Pentagon's list of servicemen captured or missing in action in Vietnam.

"I have had a couple of letters from my husband in the long months since he was captured," said Mrs. Abbott, a high school biology teacher. She said the last letter was received last August.

Sees Mate On TV
"I saw Bob on the television clips which Hanoi released the past two Christmases, showing how the prisoners spent the holidays," she said. "He didn't seem changed very much."

She added, "I'm luckier than most, for most families don't hear anything at all from their men being held by the North Vietnamese."

State GI Tells Of Atrocities By Vietnamese

DETROIT (AP) — A Vietnam war veteran said he has told assistants to Sen. Charles F. Goodell, R-N.Y., he saw South Vietnamese soldiers pile wounded Viet Cong prisoners and corpses together during the 1968 Tet offensive.

William J. Radford, 27, of Detroit, said he witnessed the incident in Ca Mau, about 150 miles southwest of Saigon, where he was stationed as an Army intelligence specialist advising South Vietnamese forces.

The Viet Cong were routed by South Vietnamese troops after an assault on Ca Mau, he said.

Radford who photographed the mound of bodies, said the South Vietnamese did it as a psychological warfare tactic to dissuade the civilian populace from supporting the Viet Cong. He said the South Vietnamese troops left the wounded Viet Cong to die.

Radford said he was not an adviser to the South Vietnamese troops involved in the incident. He said other American advisers in Ca Mau did not take part in the incident, "but as far as I know, the American did nothing to stop it."

After the incident Radford said he sent the photograph to a friend in Syracuse, N.Y. with a letter describing what he had seen. Radford said his friend forwarded photograph to Goodell, whose assistants telephoned Radford this week.

Radford also said he saw a wounded Viet Cong prisoner executed in the field by South Vietnamese troops.

Radford is now a newsman with The Associated Press in the Detroit bureau.

Moon Samples Being Studied

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Scientists today open the second box of Apollo 12 moon rocks, a chest containing carefully documented samples and soil gouged from more than two feet beneath the surface.

The space agency also plans to release 29 more color pictures taken during man's second moon-landing mission. Officials Thursday released spectacular color and black and white photos and color movies of the two moon walks, a fascinating earthly eclipse of the sun and other highlights of the mission.

Geologists are eager to open the second chest to begin examination of 12 to 15 bags of rocks that were photographed and labeled by the astronauts before packing.

And one of the core tubes, which the astronauts pounded into the surface, is packed with soil from 24 to 30 inches deep. Scientists believe that deadly radiation from the sun does not penetrate this deep and that if there is any form of life on the moon it might have been captured by the tube.

They emphasize, however, that evidence from Apollo 11 and unmanned probes indicates the chance of lunar life is extremely remote.

The Apollo 12 astronauts—Charles Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean—neared landfall in their quarantine trailer aboard the carrier Hornet, which recovered them from the South Pacific Monday.

Recess Called In Arms Confab

HELSINKI (AP) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators wound up two weeks of secret arms curb talks today in what was described as a favorable atmosphere despite a smattering of caustic comment from Moscow.

After a 105-minute session at the U.S. Embassy, the envoys agreed to meet again next Tuesday at the Soviet Embassy.

Today's session was the fifth private discussion between the two sides since the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) opened Nov. 17.

Conference sources estimated after today's meeting that the negotiators still have another week or two of discussions ahead before ending the preliminary round at Helsinki. The next stage is supposed to be full-scale negotiations.

A news blackout on how the talks are going prevailed again today as it has since the meetings began. By joint agreement, spokesmen for the two sides are saying nothing beyond announcing the meeting times.

It was understood that the delegates decided to recess for a long weekend in order to allow sufficient preparation for the next session. The layover gives them more time also to report back to their home governments.

Americans 'Turn On' Moscow With Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian-speaking Americans have turned a potentially dull U.S. education exhibit into one of Moscow's liveliest outings.

"We get off the subject very fast here," says Irene Murray, an attractive guide from Gulfport, Miss.

"Our talks usually start with education, but they turn personal, political or anything else as soon as the ice is broken."

Miss Murray is one of 21 guides, most of them young and all of them fluent in Russian, who have traveled with the U.S. Information Agency-sponsored exhibit from Kiev to Leningrad and finally to Moscow.

Questions Galore
The questions the Russians ask reflect a determination to find out who is right—the Soviet press or the Voice of America.

"Is it true that most young people take dope in America?" one crew-cut young man asked.

"No but it's a growing problem," Miss Murray replied calmly.

The U.S. Command reported 32 enemy rocket and shelling attacks during the night in which seven Americans were wounded. A spokesman said U.S. troops killed 47 enemy in battles near the demilitarized zone and south of Da Nang Thursday. Two Americans were killed and 18 were wounded in these clashes.

39,572 GIs Killed
The U.S. Command casualty figures for the period from Jan. 1, 1961, through last Saturday showed 39,572 Americans killed in action, 258,779 wounded and 1,341 missing or captured.

While these figures total 299,692, officials said they do not include at least 308 Americans who have been killed or wounded from Sunday through today, and this puts total casualties over the 300,000 mark. The official casualty figures for this week won't be released until next Thursday.

The U.S. Command said 6,995 U.S. troops have died in Vietnam from accidents and other causes "not as the result of hostile action."

Judge Plans Action To KO My Lai Talk

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — An Army judge says his order for potential witnesses not to discuss My Lai slaying case in public is being defied and has called a meeting of attorneys today.

Want Talk Stopped
Lt. Col. Reid W. Kennedy, who will establish the Army's legal guidelines in the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., announced Thursday his plans to call the closed session "to come to some kind of conclusion about defiance of an order to witnesses . . . to quit talking to the press."

He gave no indication of the action contemplated. "I can understand almost anything except this continuous interrogation of witnesses and potential witnesses and the publication of what they say before it is said in court," Kennedy said. "Something just has to be done about this."

Charged With Murder
Calley, a 26-year-old former platoon commander in Company C, 1st Battalion, 11th Infantry Brigade, is charged with murdering 109 South Vietnamese civilians at the village of My Lai on March 16, 1968.

The Army said Monday it plans to bring Calley before a general court-martial.

A day later, Kennedy, who is senior trial judge in the judge advocate's section here, ordered that potential witnesses be instructed to discuss the case before trial only with attorneys involved or Calley.

To Probe Reports
In Saigon, Thursday, South Vietnamese Sen. Tran Van Don said members of his Defense Committee and the Senate Interior Committee will go to Quang Ngai Province shortly to investigate reports of the slaying.

"We do not know where the truth is and we want to verify what happened," he said.

S. Sgt. David Mitchell has been charged with assault with intent to murder and the U.S. Army says it is investigating 24 soldiers and ex-soldiers in the case.

British Stand Fast
In London, British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart said

President Nixon can continue to count on British backing of U.S. policy in Vietnam even if a massacre occurred.

He said U.S. aims in Vietnam are just and "I don't see that it is disproved because it is claimed, or even that it is proved, that there has been this atrocity . . ."

"If it were," he continued, "we ought to have dismissed the North Vietnamese case long ago because the deliberate killing of civilians . . . has been a part on the North Vietnamese method for a long time."

Calley Not Confined
Calley is under no form of confinement here and is going about his duties as an aide to Col. Talton W. Long, deputy post commander. After his trial was ordered, he was forbidden to leave the Columbus, Ga., area without permission.

In an interview, Long said Calley was assigned to his office "to assist me in such ways as he could." Among duties to which Calley has been assigned, Long said, were the planning of an improved parking system at the building which houses Long's offices and work on a letterhead for an infantry museum project.

Granted Week's Leave
The colonel also disclosed that a month ago, after murder charges were filed against him Sept. 5, Calley was granted a week's leave to visit his ailing father in Miami, Fla.

"He went by himself," Long said. "He felt he had to get home and talk to his father—to reassure his father that he was healthy and well."

William Calley Sr. is a diabetic. Long described Lt. Calley as "an intelligent, bright, thoroughly capable young officer."

"He conducts himself with the quiet courage of a man who knows what he's about," the colonel added.

Pentagon Could Invoke Rare Code

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials may invoke two never-before-tested sections of the military justice code to try any former soldiers accused in the alleged My Lai massacre.

One of these in Article 18, generally applying to war crimes, and the other is Article 21 which, lawyers said, was intended to preserve common law permitting military commissions to sit in criminal cases.

15 New Civilians
Fifteen of the 24 men now under investigation, but not yet charged, have returned to civilian life since the alleged mass slaying of more than 100 South Vietnamese civilians on March 16, 1968.

Prosecution of the nine soldiers still on active duty poses no legal problem. They clearly are subject to the military justice code under which Lt. Lt. William L. Calley Jr. faces court martial on premeditated murder charges and S. Sgt. David Mitchell has been charged with assault with intent to kill.

Serious Questions
However, serious questions confront government legal authorities on the course to follow in trying to prosecute any of the ex-soldiers deemed to have been involved.

This is because the Supreme Court in 1955 rejected military court martial for former servicemen in freeing a discharged Air Force sergeant who had been arrested by military authorities and flown to Korea to face a murder charge after he had gone back to civilian life.

Lawyers for the Pentagon, the Justice Department and other federal agencies have been studying possible courses of action against ex-soldiers in the My Lai case.

Articles Not Tested
Senior legal officers said a likely path would be to try to invoke either Article 18 or Article 21 or both. They said the sections have not yet been tested before the Supreme Court.

The lawyers cite also what they call "the law of nations" as applying to civilians as well as military men.

Bomb Scare In Detroit Slows Santa's Float
DETROIT (AP) — Nobody tried to hijack Santa Claus on his way into Detroit from the North Pole Thursday, but there was a bomb scare.

The nationally televised J.L. Hudson Co. parade was halted for about five minutes after police received a phone call from someone who said there was a bomb on the Santa Claus float, the last float in the parade.

The procession was halted and the 120-foot-long float was thoroughly searched by parade marshals. When nothing was found, the parade resumed. The stop and the search occurred out of sight of television cameras and the vast majority of the estimated 500,000 spectators on hand for the annual tradition did not know about the incident.

War Casualties Now 300,000

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. battlefield casualties in nearly nine years of the Vietnam war reached the 300,000 mark this week and nearly half of them occurred in the 18 months since the Paris peace talks began, official sources said today.

Fighting Light
On the battlefield, communiques said fighting was light. The Viet Cong ambushed 300 South Vietnamese troops in the Mekong Delta and killed 36 men and wounded 12. There were no known enemy losses.

The U.S. Command reported 32 enemy rocket and shelling attacks during the night in which seven Americans were wounded. A spokesman said U.S. troops killed 47 enemy in battles near the demilitarized zone and south of Da Nang Thursday. Two Americans were killed and 18 were wounded in these clashes.

period, according to official figures, 575,249 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been killed.

Since the peace talks in Paris began May 13, 1968, official statistics show that 16,620 Americans have been killed and another 113,997 wounded.

The Vietnam war has become the third costliest foreign war for the United States, surpassed only by the two world wars.

Other War Tolls
In World War I, there were 53,513 American battlefield deaths, 63,195 other deaths, and 204,002 U.S. troops wounded.

The South Vietnamese said today that 4,004 civilians were killed and 12,448 were wounded in terror incidents in the first 10 months of 1969.

World War II casualties were 292,131 Americans killed, 115,183 U.S. deaths from other causes, and 670,846 Americans wounded.

Didn't Ask 'Immediate' Closing:

Nelson Details Views On Ore Terminal Dust

H. George Nelson of Escanaba, a member of the Delta County Board of Supervisors and a former councilman in Escanaba, said today he did not ask an immediate shutdown of the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. ore terminal in Escanaba when he testified before the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission in Lansing Tuesday.

"I asked the commission and the C&NW that they do not stockpile any more ore pellets this winter," Nelson said.

"At least then we could have clean air for the winter months and by spring and the start of our shipping season the C&NW might have some control over the situation," he said.

The Daily Press, in a story by Don Hoenschell, Panax Corp. staff writer, reported that Amer Pederson, president of the Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air, and Nelson "asked the commission to shut down the railroad's ore loading facility immediately. As an alternative, they asked that it be closed until anti-pollution equipment can be installed."

Statements Released
Nelson released the texts of two statements he made before the Air Pollution Control Commission.

In the second statement, made after a presentation by W. H. Huffman of Chicago, assistant vice president and chief engineer for the railroad, Nelson said:

"The key phrase for this meeting should be that the railroad 'correct the dust situation,' which would be proper contention of your committee, before the representatives of the railroad, in order to avoid antagonism, due to the fact, that no one can be expected to correct a situation until they are given opportunity to correct the situation in which they are involved. Thus, to order the railroad company to shut down operation in the circumstances as they appear now, would result in no effort to cooperate. Therefore, stern judgment should not take place until unfavorable action is indicated.

"Knowing it takes time to get equipment to do away with the dust, I would like to have your honorable committee consider the possibility of an injunction, or the word of the C&NW, that they do not stockpile any more ore pellets this winter. They have over a million tons stockpiled and I do not think it would hinder their starting shipping ore next season.

"This way they can prove to you that they will have it remedied by spring when the shipping season opens. If not, then continue the injunction. This way the citizens of Delta County would not have to be contaminated for the winter months at least and could enjoy the good clean air and the white snow. Also, if nothing is done by spring, then we would have your word they would not be able to operate at that time."

Start At Mines

"I don't think it is all the C&NW's fault. I think it should start at the mines and the C&NW continue from there. It has been done at other mines and docks, but it seems like no one does it until they are forced to do it. If necessary, cite the mines.

"We need industry and industry needs us. We do not want to harm them, but we like to have them hold faith with the people. Escanaba has kept their part of the bargain 100 per cent in cooperating. All we ask is that the companies involved keep their part and cooperate with us."

In his first remarks to the commission, Nelson said he was "appealing to you to do something about this critical dust pollution problem which exists due to the new ore dock and stockpiling facilities, which is extremely detrimental to the health of every citizen in Delta County."

"When Mr. Ben Heineman, Mr. Larry Provo and other C&NW officials met with myself and other members of the Escanaba City Council, they promised us 'There will be no more, maybe less, dust than there is with the old dock'. This was in the spring of 1967. Two and one half years later, they have not kept their word.

"The dust situation started this spring. This is when Mr. Larry Provo should have spoken on what the C&NW was going to do, not wait until Nov. 15th, after being cited. If he had, the citizens would have been informed of what progress was being made and it might possibly have been cleared up by this time.

"The sprinkler system was hardly used because even though it did take care of a lot of dust, the dust was so thick that it would clog the pumps so the sprinkler would have to be shut down to repair the pump.

Studying Ordinance

"As a member of the Delta County Board of Supervisors, we are now studying to pass a county ordinance to control pollution. How strong should we make it? That question may be answered by the decisions of your committee today."

The Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission ordered the railroad to make a progress report in January. Huffman said the C&NW will take action to move its diesel engine staging area, another source of complaint, and has hired an environmental control firm to develop a dust control system for the terminal. He said engineering studies are underway.

looked stunned, but he appeared to accept the reply.

Typical Quiz

American salaries, cars, size of apartments, the Vietnam war, divorce, anticommunism, the price of the guide's dress, and the American view of Russia typify the questions that the guides handle daily.

Miss Murray and the others stand alone on platforms or in booths displaying tape recorders, teaching machines and other American educational aides. The Russians drift from one booth to another, sometimes comparing the answers of the various guides and noting that the guides' opinions differ widely.

Russians Surprised
Lyndia Stopenkoff of San Francisco, one of the guides, shocked about 50 Russians in her booth one day this week when a visitor asked her what she thought about the space race.

"I'm against all cosmonauts and all astronauts," she replied bluntly. "They cost too much money."

But she got her best reaction when a woman asked her exactly when American education began to develop the machines now on display in Moscow.

"When you launched your first Sputnik," she said. The sigh of satisfaction from the crowd was almost audible.

Director Approves Talk

Exhibit director Tom Craig of Seattle said in an interview he believes the guides should express their personal opinions freely "for the sake of credibility."

"If they're all delivering the same line," he said, "it wouldn't go over." Craig estimates that the exhibit will have been seen by 800,000 persons—or one in every 300 Soviet citizens—when it completes its six-city tour next spring.

The exhibit, part of the U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange program, closes in Moscow Dec. 2.

Teachers Reveal Strike Reasoning

GARDEN — "The teachers of the Big Bay de Noc school district are on strike because of the school board's refusal to negotiate," Carl Freiberg, president of the Big Bay de Noc Education Association said today.

"In the state of Michigan there are two classes of strikes," he continued. "One is an economic strike wherein the striking party does not work because of differences in money matters, the other kind of strike is an unfair labor practice strike."

"The latter strike is a work stoppage because of an unfair labor practice by the employer," Freiberg said. "In this case the employer has consistently refused to negotiate with the teachers. An unfair labor practice charge has been upheld by trail examiner Bert Wicking of the Labor Mediation Board."

Freiberg cited Wicking's recommended order:

"It is hereby recommended that the Employment Relations Commission order the Big Bay de Noc school board to desist and cease from refusing to bargain with the Big Bay de Noc Education Association by hindering and delaying the bargaining process."

Position Explained
Freiberg said it is the contention of the teachers that the board is still refusing to negotiate and is hindering and delaying the bargaining process in direct violation of the trail examiner's recommended order.

"The strike has been branded as illegal by the school board when in fact the legality of such a strike has not been tested in the courts of Michigan according to expert opinion of the Michigan Education Association, the parent organization of which the Big Bay de Noc Education Association is a member," Freiberg said.

"Is the destruction of the school district the goal of the school board?" he asked.

"It would appear that some members of the Big Bay de Noc school board would rather see the loss of the entire teaching staff of the district rather than admit that they have erred," he charged.

Loss Of Staff

"The loss of the staff would certainly mean that the children of the district would have to be sent to other schools. This can only have one consequence for the children, an unbearable ride to and from school. It can have only one consequence for the taxpayers of the school district, much higher taxes to support a system of schools in another community," Freiberg said.

State Gunfire Toll Now Five

The gunfire death toll in Michigan's firearm deer season rose to five with the death late Wednesday of a 16-year-old Sanford youth in Midland County.

Authorities said Lawrence Yarger was demonstrating a rifle to three other youths when the gun discharged.

No gunfire accidents were reported in the Upper Peninsula Thanksgiving or this morning as the season headed into its final three days.

Most lower Michigan and non-resident hunters have left the woods with only local hunters remaining, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Throughout the season in the Delta - Marquette-Alger county area, officers have reported fewer hunters and a light kill. There have been 108 arrests in the district for game law violations.

The bow and arrow season reopens Dec. 1 and will continue through Dec. 31. A deer of either sex may be taken on an archery license, providing the hunter has not already killed a deer, officers said.

Fishing activity is light and is expected to continue light until ice develops. Fishermen are reminded that certain streams open for fall trout and salmon angling close Dec. 31.

However, the Great Lakes and the following local streams are open year around for steelhead, brown trout and salmon fishing: Bark River from Bridge in Section 14, T37N, R24W down; Days River from golf course bridge down; Sturgeon River from Federal Highway 13 bridge down; Carp River from County Rd. 553 bridge down; Chocoley River from U.S. 41 bridge down, and Dead River from Tourist Park dam down. There no longer are inland trout lakes open for extended fall fishing for trout, however, all non-trout lakes which might have a trout population may be fished year around for such species, officers said. If questions develop, consult a conservation officer.

Housewife May Have Answer To Leisure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patsy Edwards says Americans, capable of great achievement on the job, sometimes can't find satisfying things to do in their leisure time.

So, for a fee of $27.50, she tries to help anyone who has that "ugh" feeling when days off roll around.

Her business is called "Creative Leisure." She and two part-time assistants provide suggestions for those who find weekends disappointing, vacations hard to fill and who dread retirement.

"People are getting more and more leisure time every year," 51-year-old Mrs. Edwards said. "The average man or woman has 25 hours a week of leisure time—and soon it will be up to 35 hours."

What's more, the pert, brunette housewife said, surveys show 30 per cent of all Americans are unhappy with the way they spend their free time.

A secretary in her 30s told Mrs. Edwards she felt a need to "express myself." But she didn't know where to begin.

Vocational interest tests indicated the client was highly interested in paleontology and archeology. Now the secretary spends six hours each weekend as a volunteer worker at the county museum.

A high school counselor and his wife were worried both about unfulfilling leisure hours and forthcoming retirement. The wife was steered to a book study club. Her husband, oriented to the outdoors, was guided toward volunteer work in parks and a welding course that led to weekend mechanical chores.

A retired executive secretary, bored with efforts at creative writing, learned through testing that—although childless herself—she had a tremendous interest in youngsters.

She was directed to a center for early education of 3-to-6 year-olds.

Get Kids Back In School Is Plea Of Most Citizens

By MRS. ELEANOR LABUTTE

GARDEN — There are varying opinions on how to end the teachers' strike in the Big Bay de Noc School District — but most everybody agrees that the kids should be back in school.

About 600 students have been out of school since the 27 teachers in the district failed to report for work on Monday, Nov. 17, in a dispute with the school board over the terms of a new contract.

I have interviewed several people in the Garden, Fairport, Cooks and Nahma areas on the problem confronting the Big Bay de Noc board and teachers. Some, although they said they felt strongly about it, did not wish to make a statement for publication.

Others were willing to have their comments published, including the following: Calvin Richards, Garden storekeeper.

"I think the people would like to know what's going on. No one really knows or understands what the deal is, all we hear are stories, but no facts. What do they really want? Both sides that is . . ."

Betty Plante, mother of six school children, one senior, one junior, one freshman and three elementary.

"There should be a happy medium that could be reached between the school board and the teachers if each side would give a little. Figures are coming out at the meetings with percentages and so forth, that the average taxpayer doesn't understand. Therefore, if the board and the teachers cannot reach an agreement between themselves I would say it should be printed and published in simple language that everyone can understand and voted upon by the taxpayers.

Mrs. Betty Plante

"Our main problem is to get these kids back in school so they won't lose time to be made up next summer when this time is going to have to be made up and when most high school students must work and save for college. Some students have expressed the opinion that they have jobs already offered for next spring when they graduate and to obtain this employment they will quit school before they graduate if necessary to secure these jobs."

Herman Strassler, father of five school children, three high schoolers and two in Cooks School.

"We elected a school board and I think they worked with the problem from the beginning, so they know more about this problem than the average citizen. Until last night's meeting, I wasn't sure but now I feel the board has met the teachers more than half way. I also feel the figures have been distorted and we should take the figures of the audit report.

"The teachers as a bargaining committee are entitled to bargain for a fair wage, but they do not have the right to tell the board how to spend their money which is what they are trying to do. If the teachers are so concerned about the children, why do they leave the children without education while they negotiate?"

Sidney Lucas, father of five in the school district.

"In my opinion our teachers latest request of Nov. 24 is reasonable and should be accepted. A wage comparable with other schools our size in the Upper Peninsula is about all we have to offer to encourage good teachers to come, and to stay, in our schools. It is time we leave personalities out of this, leaving all past quarrels in the past, and start thinking of our children."

Lester Groll, storekeeper, Fayette.

"It is my contention if people aren't satisfied with the wages they are getting they should go elsewhere to get it. This too should be stressed, that some of these teachers have been riding the gravy train for years and living in their own homes and in their own town near to their work.

"They expect to get $10,000 a year. This is a salary paid to bank presidents for an entire year and not 180 days. Most people making $10,000 have quite an initial investment in their work. I think they are way out of proportion in their demands."

John LaTulip, father of eight school children.

"I personally think the worst thing that we could do in a situation like this is to take sides and try to put the blame on just one, but in this instance I am behind the school board.

John LaTulip

"We elect this board to do a job for the public. I think they are going over the call of duty on their part. The teachers are on a work stoppage because (they say) their wages are low, yet when their wages were made public they called it unethical. I think if their wages were too low they should have been glad to let this be known. I have eight children in the Big Bay Schools and personally if I was on this school board

I would vote to shut the school doors until this is settled in a just way and not open them up until that time. Our area is a low economic, underprivileged one, unless we go to work where the money is. The average wage of the teachers is $45 per day, while hardly the investment that I have to make my living, which by the way, isn't a six hour day and a five day week either.

"I am a farmer and school bus driver. If anyone thinks I have an ax to grind because of the bus job I would gladly sacrifice the job to settle this thing."

Mrs. Francis Ansell, mother of six children.

"I am all for the teachers! Money is the thing today. Everyone goes where the money is. If they don't start paying our teachers, we won't have to worry about our children going to school, much less their children, because there won't be any teachers to teach them. I couldn't be a teacher and I wouldn't encourage any of my six children to be one, and I don't begrudge them one cent that they get.

"You can't figure their pay on an hourly basis, you have to figure their service. $10,000 is an average income today of anyone with a trade."

Rufus Spaulding, 82-year-old farmer.

"I can't see what they want. I think the teachers are asking too much. I'm really not much interested but it has to come to a finish but I probably won't even be here to see it finished. I don't know where it's going to end but it's sure an awful thing. I don't think the kids are getting any real schooling now, some can't even read and their writing is terrible.

"What if the taxpayers went on strike and wouldn't pay their taxes, where would they be? We don't holler as much about taxes as they do about more wages. They aren't harming us old folks — they're hurting those kids the most."

Bernard Grenier, father of two children in school, with five already graduated.

"One aspect that is sometimes lost in a dispute of this nature is that there is no dispute between the school board and the teachers. The school board is the "bargaining committee" for the people. They are elected by the people and charged with the responsibility of operating the school system within the tax millage voted for by the people.

Bernard Grenier

"They have no personal ax to grind. They have nothing to gain nor lose by presenting anything but the facts, except that they are criminally liable if they do not operate within the budget. Their annual wage, a paltry $90, does not so much as pay for their transportation, yet they bear the brunt of abuse from both sides.

"A very informative and rather startling article appears in the November 1969 issue of 'Michigan School Board Journal' in the form of a statement by Richard J. Ruhala, secretary of the Flint Board of Education, which recently experienced a strike by teachers. Borrow a copy of this issue from your favorite board member and read the article, it begins on page 10. It will be well worth your while."

Mrs. Garth Briggs, mother of one school child.

"I think the board has offered a fair wage and with the fringe benefits I think they are being offered a good year's salary."

William Haas, Nahma, father of one school child.

"To me 90 per cent of the

Rifle, Ring And Other Articles Reported Stolen

Escanaba police have received reports of three larcenies in the city within the past few days, including the theft of a rifle and jacket from a parked automobile.

The rifle, a 303 carbine, and a $45 jacket, were the property of Gene Legg of 318 S. 10th St., and were taken from his parked car in the 1100 block, Ludington St., he told police. His report to officers was made on Thursday.

Diane Robinette, Bark River, on Tuesday told police that her purse, containing $10, was taken from a counter in the Montgomery Ward Store.

Fred Brunette, 617 N. 19th St., reported to police on Wednesday that his wallet containing $40 and his wedding ring were stolen from his home in his absence.

teachers are overpaid now. The school teacher used to help the children a little, now they do not help them when they need help, but send some slips for you to help the children. The school board and the teachers should do the settling — this is my opinion."

George Froggatt, father of two school children and one daughter at home.

"I feel it's up to the school board to settle this. In fact, they have to. They have to check to see if they can afford this. I think we are entitled to accurate figures and the public should know these figures. A compromise on both sides is necessary at this time.

"I feel the school board has gone more than half way to meet these demands. Before last night's meeting (the one held at the Nahma High School Monday evening) I didn't feel this way. I would like to see the teachers get a raise, but I think it has to be done within the limit the school board establishes. That's why we have a board."

Robert Porter, Tylen's Resort, with one grandson, a senior.

"I feel the board has met the teachers more than half way. I feel some of the teachers are overpaid now. I think the teachers showed poor principle in walking out unauthorized and leaving these kids stranded. I understand they offered $500 across the board and some demanded as much as $2,000.

"I have attended two of these meetings and I think for this area, economic wise, the demands are too high. As far as printing salaries, I don't know who has a better right to know than the public. If they hadn't been so unreasonable in their demands for raises I don't believe this would have been published in the first place."

Three Injured In M-35 Crash

Three persons were injured in a two-car crash at 6:20 p. m. Thursday on M-35 just north of County Rd. A-29 in Ford River Township.

State Police reported that a car being driven by Floyd Therrian, 28, of Milwaukee, Wis., was headed north on M-35 and attempted to make a left turn in front of an auto being driven by Charles Miron, Rte. 1, Escanaba, when they collided.

Troopers said that both drivers suffered minor injuries and a passenger, Terry Dufor, 23, of Milwaukee, Wis., was badly injured in the Therrian vehicle.

Police said all three were taken by ambulance to St. Francis Hospital. The drivers were treated and released. Dufor was listed in fair condition this morning by hospital officials.

Troopers issued a summons to Therrian for making an improper left turn.

Death Claims Mrs. Miron

She was born March 28, 1908 in Oconto, Wis., and had resided in the Cornell area for 19 years.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph A.; one son, Albert Deneau of Chicago and one daughter, Mrs. Russell (Vivian) Trombley of the Chemical Plant Location; five grandchildren and one half-brother, Frank Belongue of Chasaning, Mich.

Tech Student Body Shapes Up

HOUGHTON — The student body at Michigan Technological university here is in somewhat better shape than it was last year.

Now, there is one woman for every 10 men on the campus, slightly better than last year's ratio.

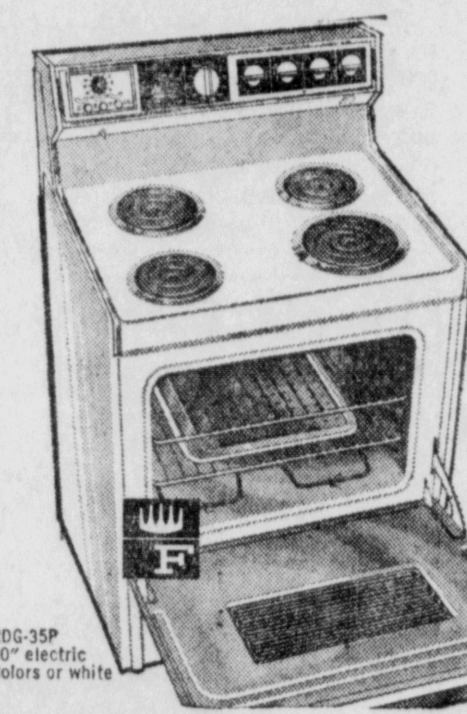

Girls now occupy 25 per cent of the class presidencies at the university. Miss Mary K. Newell, a chemistry major from Chicago, was recently elected freshman class president.

The university harbors 447 coeds in a pool of about 4,500 men.

TRADITIONAL DESIGN envelopes both units of two-family house. By concealing separate entrances behind screened porches and making the two wings of different sizes, it is difficult to tell that this is a duplex.

One-Family Look In Duplex

By ANDY LANG

The increasing demand for two-family houses, either for conventional use or for retirement living, prompts publication of this design by architect Herman H. York.

These two units, although attached, are individually designed to avoid the disadvantage of a mirrored left-and-right version of a single plan. With separate entrances, concealed behind screened porches and with one of the units provided with a garage, the fa-

DINING AREA of combined kitchen-family room has sliding glass door leading to rear terrace, an identical arrangement in each unit of duplex.

S-21 STATISTICS

Design S-21, a duplex, has a living room, family room, kitchen, den and two bedrooms in the main unit, with a total habitable area of 1093 square feet. The second unit, which does not have a den, totals 953 square feet. Each section has a screened porch at the front and a terrace in the rear. The main unit also has a one-car garage. The overall dimensions, which include both living quarters and the screened porches, are 79' by 35', not including the rear terraces.

cade appears to be a single home rather than the duplex it actually is.

Although there is similarity in the general layout of the two units, one is larger due to the addition of a den, garage and larger terrace. Also, in the case of the larger unit there is a private lavatory for the owners' bedroom.

The leisure areas are divided between front and rear, which has the advantage of satisfying the occupants of either side regarding the better view.

A family room and kitchen are combined in one area with ample space for dining. A sliding glass door gives quick access to the private terrace for dining or lounging.

Each unit has two bedrooms and a full bathroom. Between the two bedroom sections and the units themselves is an 8-inch thick masonry fire wall that also acts as a sound barrier. The wall extends to the underside of the roof sheathing.

Exterior storage, an important matter in houses without basements, is located off the terrace in readily accessible spots, designed into the structure as part of the architectural treatment. Too often, in multiple unit housing, no planning is given to locations for outdoor storage as well as to simple matters as how one hides the garbage can or milk delivery box. With storage units as shown, a part of this area can be used for such purposes. The utility room is large enough to house a furnace and laundry equipment.

The exterior calls for traditional detail in restrained simple patterns, using wood shingles and brick as wall finish and a moderate amount of brick for accent. The wood shingles may be either sawn or medium weight hand split.

By breaking the roof ridge three times in an asymmetrical pattern and using the front-facing gable over the left unit to balance the straight roof line on the right, a pleasing balance is attained. The result is a house good to look at as well as practical for two families to live in.

HERE'S THE ANSWER

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Q.—We are getting ready to buy a house, but we are completely confused by all the terms being flung at us from every direction—ranch, raised ranch, split level, two-story, 1½-story, traditional, Colonial, contemporary, modern and many others.

Can you straighten out for us exactly what all these things mean from a real estate standpoint? Of course, we have a general knowledge of what they mean, but we seem to run into contradictory opinions when we ask about them.

A.—You aren't the only ones confused. So are a lot of persons in the real estate business, since this is an era when many different types and styles of houses are mixed, with the result that hybrids outnumber the authentic. Thus, we'll give you general definitions. A ranch is a one-story house with all the rooms on the ground floor and spread out. It may or may not have a basement.

A raised ranch has the main floor a little above the ground level, the basement higher than usual. A split level usually has three floors, but may have four. The bedroom level is usually the highest, the garage and recreation area the lowest. A two-story has the second floor directly above the first, but there are variations of this.

A 1½ story is basically a one-story house with partial space upstairs for extra rooms. A traditional is, loosely speaking, a house that has stood the test of time and may be from the early days of America or any other part of the world but especially Western Europe. A Colonial is traditional, but refers to the types of house built by the colonists and borrowed from their countries of origin, changed to suit the conditions in the New World. A contemporary makes use of up-to-date styles and materials but is not as "way out" as the houses generally tagged as "modern."

Wood Backgrounds Are 'In' For Decorating

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The trend to wood backgrounds in homes is bringing greater responsibilities to the architects and designers.

This is the opinion of Albert Herbert, well-known interior decorator and furniture designer, who has just done a series of rooms featuring various new textured architectural wall panels.

"Anyone building a house should see all the new wall materials available — molded, laminated and photographically reproduced," Herbert says. Architects and designers must decide how to select from these things. In addition, a new design thing evolves when one chooses darker backgrounds which can soak up light. These new textured panels react to light, which can emphasize surface interest. This is unlike the dreary effects achieved with lighting Gothic paneled rooms in the past."

Herbert's work is based primarily on architectural forms — simple backgrounds enriched with sculpture. But new wall products do not obligate one to add other things to give them interest, he says.

In one room setting, he showed a panel of walnut veneers of varying lengths and widths laminated to plywood, overlapping vertically and horizontally in three-dimensional relief. It is available in seven wood surfaces, including rosewood and pecan.

"Collage panels are an art form in themselves," he says. "People want lush looking walls, a reaction to plastics. We have so many artificial materials that a room loaded with plastics needs a background that is a foil for its sleek surfaces."

An indication that we are moving away from the sterile look of materials, he says is evident in the way important architects are using concrete in an effort to curb "Brutalism," as the massive architectural shapes are known.

"At Yale, a building by architect Paul Rudolph is an aesthetic reaction to the sterile look of concrete forms — the surface was aerated with air hammers to create textured form."

New laminated plywoods available to architects and decorators include an Ionic, straight-line pattern in 2-inch and 4-inch widths. Its classical lines intrigued Herbert to an unusual room setting emphasizing space saving aspects. A half-circle table was used against a mirrored wall giving the appearance of a round table over which five hanging lights looked like 10 in the mirror.

A butcher-block design resembling over-size marquetry is inlaid in vertical rows that are checked with shades of reddish-brown, cocoa and beiges. He used it in a country-kitchen background. Weldwood panels in a decorative batten design are inspired by a contemporary look in decorating, but the butcher block motif can be used either in traditional or contemporary settings, he says.

COLLAGE OF WOOD... This textured wall panel is a three-dimensional one of hardwood veneers that comes in colors characteristic of the particular wood. It is shown in a design setting by Albert Herbert.

Maxis Are Hazards Says Safety Council

NEW YORK (AP) — The maxicoat is a lady-ripping, street-sweeping, escalator-clogging menace to the female population!

So says the Greater New York Safety Council speaking out on fashion's current fad.

Disgruntled girl watchers have derided the maxi as an aesthetic hindrance, but the council declared it a safety hazard as well.

Mrs. Marjorie B. May, the council's director of home safety, warned fashionable maxi fans Thursday of these pitfalls: —Maxis can easily trip the wearer on stairs and curbs.

—The floor-length hem catches in escalators and in bus, elevator and revolving doors.

—Maxis have a tendency to become street sweepers and subway dusters if the wearer forgets to lift her hem.

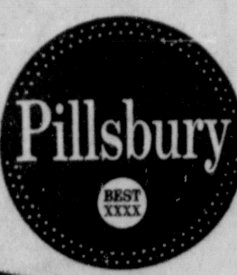

"Today's women have not yet learned how to walk gracefully in the maxi clothes," said Mrs. May. "They have little understanding of how to lift the long skirt or coat for graceful stepping and for safety."

"Having layers of heavy, wet and dirty fabric slopping against one's ankles on a rainy day or in snowy, slushy weather can be not only uncomfortable but definitely detracts from the well-groomed look the wearer may be striving to achieve."

Delta Nurses Hear About 'LSD Trips'

Delta District Nurses held their regular dinner meeting at the Medi-Center on Nov. 25.

Robert Hanson and Don Belongie of the Menominee County Sheriff's Dept. presented a movie, "LSD." Various forms of marijuana and other drugs were shown to the group. Mr. Hansen also cited some of the problems that are experienced in the Marinette-Menominee area.

John Robitaille, detective of the Escanaba City Police, spoke briefly on the drug problem in the local area and turned the program over to Stanley Hojnacki and Ed Scull. Both young men were involved recently with a companion who experienced a, "bad trip," after taking LSD.

Hojnacki stated they had each taken a tablet which was four times the strength of normal. Both men experienced, "bad trips," but were able to, "come down."

Their main concern was for the third youth who had to be hospitalized after jumping through a glass door.

Hojnacki and Scull expressed doubt as the treatment available for their friend at the local hospital. They also feared the legal implications involved but did however notify the police.

Both expressed the various aspects of increased perception while on a trip but after experiencing a, "bad trip," decided it is not worth the risk. A question and answer session followed the talk.

Mrs. Geraldine Vanlerberghe announced that the Christmas party will be held Dec. 16 at the Dells Supper Club.

Vienna Model Named New Miss World

LONDON (AP) — Thousands cheered the new Miss World, a blonde model from Vienna, but women demonstrators demanding "liberation" of their sex booed as actor Omar Sharif crowned the winner Thursday night.

Squads of police patrolled the Albert Hall ballroom to keep order among the protesters as 20-year-old Eva Rueber-Staier accepted the title and said: "The first thing I want is my boy friend over here."

"Being Miss World isn't going to make any difference to my marriage plans," she said. The date is "sometime next year and we hope to have two or three children."

Miss Rueber-Staier, who measures 36-23-36 won out over 49 other contestants. She will receive $6,000 in prize money and $27,000 in personal appearance fees.

Miss United States, Gail Renshaw, 22, of Arlington, Va., came in second and picked up a $1,200 prize, which she plans to use to pay off the mortgage on her parents' home. The frosty-haired accountant with a 39-25-37 figure said afterwards: "I'm through with the beauty contest business. I plan to stick with accounting and work for a degree."

Two groups of demonstrators, totaling about 50 persons, distributed leaflets to the 5,000 spectators.

One group, the Women's Liberation Workshop, said the Miss World show meant "the economic, social and psychological degrading of women" and benefited "no one except big business."

The other group was protesting South Africa's participation in the contest because of the nation's segregationist policies.

All goes well until the arrival of Tina, Chantal's best friend, who informs Gene and Chantal's father of their wives' techniques. This sets off the fireworks for a very explosive ending.

The cast, under the direction of David Scherff, includes: Sue Hoehn, Cathy Williams, Theresa Thennes, Barbara Nyberg, Randy Peltonen, John Skellenger, Jana Apelgren, Debbie Nolan, Sue Labre, Kathy Madden, Linda Norlander and John Krout.

Video Viewers Feast On Parades, Football

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — The television viewer who doesn't like parades and football has, on Thanksgiving Day, about as much fun as the holiday houseguest who can't stand turkey.

CBS and NBC devoted the entire morning to those department store parades which over the television years have become as much a part of Thanksgiving as pumpkin pie. With four professional football games on CBS and NBC and a college football game on ABC, there was a considerable period during the afternoon when the sight of gridiron warriors was all that was available on the network channels.

While CBS was turning its cameras on the bands, floats and celebrities in parades in four cities — New York, Toronto, Detroit and Philadelphia—NBC

New Construction Plan Study Needs Additional Funds

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University wants private industry to help finance a project demonstrating new construction techniques.

Dr. Robert D. Schuetz, associate director of the MSU Institute of Biology and Medicine, said in remarks prepared for the MSU Faculty Club that the project would cost $1 million. He said the U.S. Public Health Service has provided a grant of $437,572, but the rest must come from other sources. He said private industry would be asked for help.

Schuetz said the technique involves suspension techniques and assembling of rooms before placement in a building.

He said the facility would be used by the College of Human Medicine and the School of Nursing.

Schuetz said that over the long run, the new construction techniques "will result in savings of about 50 per cent in construction time and 25 per cent in construction costs."

The largest of North America's freshwater fishes, sturgeons range from five to 12 feet long. The fish drags four sensitive barbels — a type of feeler — across the ocean bottom to help weak eyes find food.

Lorne Greene of "Bonanza," one of the hosts on the NBC program, learned the perils of ad-libbing while filling air time between acts. He saw some clowns dressed as comedy firemen and observed that he is a volunteer fireman in Hollywood. Then he added, "We keep the fires going until the professional firemen get there."

A short time later, Greene earnestly explained he was only fooling—volunteer firemen, he said, really do a great job. There had been, he said, some complaints received about his remark.

Compared with Greene's mild sally, Alan King's "Music Hall" hour on NBC Wednesday night was sharp satire of popular consumer bees.

One sketch had an adjuster for a fire insurance company finding little damage in a burned out room. Another had a frantic father-to-be trying to get his wife admitted to a hospital while the admitting nurse and a doctor ignored him. Another consisted of bitter King fun about the frailty of some electrical equipment.

Alan King must be conditioned to complaints since his stock-in-trade is shooting sharp, comedy-coated darts at business and the professions. Maybe he can get away with it because everyone knows he is a comedian and therefore one is supposed to laugh.

Lorne Greene, on the other hand, has the public image of a fast, serious Ben Cartwright, fast on the draw but slow with the funnies.

SOUTH AFRICA'S "SMOKEY" — Here is South Africa's version of "Smokey Bear," the U. S. symbol of forest fire prevention. She is called "Bokkie," and is pictured standing in front of a fire-blackened forest. There is a tear on her cheek and a message which reads "Look what you've done! Only you can prevent forest fires."

Ed Sullivan Goes After Top Television Talent

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Rolling Stones couldn't come to him, so Ed Sullivan came across the continent to tape a sequence with the British rock group for his Sunday night variety show.

This may give testimony on why Sullivan remains the redoubtable, unquestioned daddy of them all in the television variety field.

After 21 years, he is still going after the top acts—and getting them.

Sullivan's imperfections as an emcee have long been decried, and he has flourished while his detractors faded. None could deny his powers as a showman, as he demonstrated with his Rolling Stones coup.

At a rehearsal in CBS's Television City, Sullivan gave no indication that he admired or understood the Stones' thing. But in his dressing room afterward he demonstrated his knowledge of the Britishers' draw.

"These boys are hot, especially with the younger crowd," he explained. "They're on a concert tour, so I decided to come here and tape them. They cost a lot of money, but they're worth it."

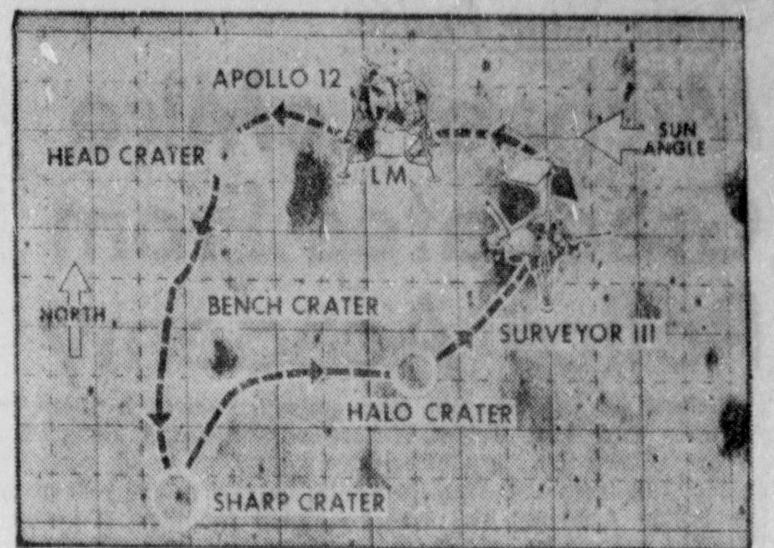

"An attraction like the Rolling Stones will bring us viewers that don't ordinarily tune the show in. The repercussions drift over the next few weeks; those who tuned in may decide that the show is pretty good, and they'll come back. Another act who gave us the same kind of reaction was Elvis Presley, back in the days when he was first starting out."

Television historians will recall that Presley was a cause celebre on the Sullivan show. In those days he was undulating his body in a manner not considered polite, and Sullivan ordered the cameras focused on the upper Presley only.

Likewise he carefully viewed the movements of the Rolling Stones, advised them to avoid any suggestiveness, and even censored a couple of words in the lyrics.

"I think that's one of the reasons that the show has been accepted: parents know they can watch it with their children and not be embarrassed," Sullivan reasoned. "I won't allow anything that is suggestive, and I'll cut an act rather than run the risk."

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Thesis Wins Praise: Michael LeMire Graduates From Police Academy

Michael D. LeMire, son of Attorney and Mrs. Robert E. LeMire, Escanaba, graduated on Nov. 19 from the Ann Arbor Police Academy and was awarded a training certificate from the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council.

At the graduation ceremony Michael received a special note of recognition as the top student of the academy. His selection was a result of his excellent performance and ratings determined by his examination grades and instructor ratings.

As a part of the graduation exercise LeMire read his thesis—"What is a policeman?". The thesis was given wide acclaim by law enforcement officers in Lower Michigan.

"What is a Policeman? What profession demands total concern, generates a complete sense of loyalty among its members, requires a thorough, precise and instant determination of action in its realm of duty, plays a major role in the necessary functions of government which allow our democracy to continue and, yet, promotes antagonistic feelings among many?"

"The answer, to those who understand or care about the question, is plain and undeniable.

Proud To Be A Part

"Many facets of this profession are not known to the general public and are, therefore, misunderstood. Failure to initiate the opportunities for clearing up this misunderstanding relinquinshes all doubt to fear. This ineffective route of circumstance is the greatest cause of frustration to the members of this profession. Only the continued and strenuous efforts of its members will bring about a proper understanding and, hopefully, compatible working relationship in the future.

"Compassion, understanding, physical endurance, and belief in the democratic system are the major ingredients in this profession. The point most directly related to this field is that of believing in this government. Because it works better than any other system in existence and because no one has produced anything better for the future, we feel proud to be a part of it.

"In most instances of public contact, a member of this profession is an unwanted commodity. In time of public need, however, services cannot be rendered quickly enough. Where is the line drawn on acceptability? When life or property is endangered, this profession is called upon to serve the public in immediate and full capacity. In the position of enforcing those rules of living set up by the public through the governmental system, appreciation of services rendered are accepted somewhat less than enthusiastically.

Prepared For The Job

"This profession is necessary for the mere existence of mankind. Without it our society would be in a chaotic state. Services rendered are both the means to the end and the end of the means. One begets the other. Promoting a peaceful coexistence and enacting forces required to achieve this goal are the ideals of all, but the job of few.

"This professional is present at all times and in all places. Whenever or wherever his services are needed, he is there. These conditions are absolutely necessary for the fulfillment of responsibilities connected with his field of work.

"I am one of those people who wishes to be affiliated with this profession. In preparing for the job ahead, I have undertaken extensive studies to acquire the basis of knowledge necessary for the completion of services available to the public.

"My attitude has been captured by the desire to become and remain a member of this organization. A true test of my adopted position came quite unexpectedly and, as recent as, last night. As I knocked on the door of an old friend's apartment, I was entertaining thoughts of my professional procedure. This in itself bears out the required attitude, but, as it turned out, was only a subconscious reminder. The door was not yet fully opened when my friend blurted out, 'You look like a cop.' Yes, that's my bag, policeman for the Ann Arbor Police Department."

Upon his graduation Michael LeMire became a member of the Ann Arbor Police Department, which is considered one of the better police departments in the country.

Officer LeMire and his wife Donna (the former Donna Breaht) and their two children, Mike Jr., and Mark, reside in Ann Arbor.

Dressing Like 'Square' Aid To Shoplifting?

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — Shoplifting is easy, six students report.

All you have to do is dress like a square and pick the right town.

Even if another customer sees you stealing, the chances are he will ignore it.

So say the six University of California students who went on a two-city pilfering expedition as a psychology class experiment.

Said David Lopez, 22, leader of the project:

"Once we unplugged a radio which was playing and walked away with it."

Lopez summed up the experiment Tuesday by saying, "We found people were not very observant. You could shoplift in front of them and they didn't seem to notice, or didn't want to notice."

He said he wore a suit and tie and carried a briefcase "and took everything I wanted without being challenged."

But other members of the group, wearing hippie-type clothing, "came under a lot of suspicion."

Lopez said police departments and merchants in Davis and nearby Woodland were consulted in advance and agreed to cooperate.

He said the students found a striking difference between the number of witnesses who reported their thefts in the two cities.

In Woodland, 13 per cent reported the thefts to the store managers, 74 per cent just looked the other way, and 13 per cent denied seeing a theft or tried to rationalize it.

In Davis, the figures were 62 per cent reporting, 35 per cent refusing and 3 per cent saying they didn't see anything.

The variation, Lopez said, probably arose because the campus community of Davis is relatively affluent and the farm town of Woodland has a higher percentage of low-income families.

Lopez had no estimate on how much merchandise the students took. They returned it all to the store managers.

Mortgages On Homes Still Climb Upward

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average effective mortgage rate for new homes rose to 8.12 per cent in October, continuing an upward spiral for the 11th straight month.

The Federal Home and Loan Bank Board reported the bad news for homebuyers and the construction industry Thursday.

There was a wide range in rates charged across the country with the highest average of 9.13 per cent in Seattle, Wash. This was a jump of about 1 1/2 per cent over a year earlier.

The San Francisco-Oakland, Calif., area also had a high rate of 8.97 per cent.

On the other end of the scale, Philadelphia, Pa., had an average effective rate of 7.07 per cent.

The board's report shows life insurance companies charged an average 8.48 per cent and mortgage companies were right behind at 8.45 per cent on their new home loans.

Preston Martin, chairman of the board, said the curtailed supply of money mortgage funds at a time when housing is in strong demand accounted for the continued rise in October.

One of the problems, the report said, is that investors were taking their money out of savings and loan institutions which provide mortgages and putting their funds where they can earn a higher interest.

Florida Coeds Open Apartment Cleaning Service

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Two bright-eyed coeds with sexy mesh stockings will clean a sink, scrub a bathroom and vacuum a rug—all for the love of the great outdoors.

Lisa Mahaffey and her roommate Nancy Sarris wanted to go camping "in lots of snow" over their Christmas break from the University of Florida. So the two tall brunettes opened an apartment cleaning service.

Only men's domiciles qualify. The girls, both 20, decided on eye-catching attire to promote their service. They hit on a modified version of a Playboy Club's bunny outfit, with a rabbit's fur tail, satin ears and fishnet stockings.

"We thought we would get more customers dressed that way, and boy, we were right," said Miss Mahaffey, who stretches her leotard over a 36-22-36 frame.

"We only clean men's apartments, because that way we increase our social life, and besides, they're more fun to talk to," said Miss Sarris, who measures 35-23-35.

The girls charge $10 for a two bedroom apartment and $6 to scour a one-bedroom apartment. They are pooling the money to take a two-week car trip to Canada because "Nancy has never seen snow and I miss it like crazy," said Miss Mahaffey, originally from the North but now living Key West.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Restoring Rothschild Mansion Costs Plenty

PARIS (AP) — It's been called the Rothschild mansion and "that monstrosity."

And though it has consumed nearly all of an $875,000 congressional appropriation, it's still a couple of years and maybe more than a million dollars away from being restored to a state fit for the U.S. ambassador.

The 30-room, three-story mansion on Rue du Faubourg St. Honore is about a block away from the U.S. Embassy on Avenue Gabriel and less than 100 yards from the Elysee Palace. Perhaps for those reasons successive ambassadors have coveted it as a residence.

$1.9 Million Sale Price

Bought from the French Rothschilds in 1948 for $1.9 million, the mansion provided office space for more than 100 embassy staff members until 1967.

That was when the House Appropriations subcommittee agreed to a long-standing request for money to restore and redecorate the mansion as the ambassador's residence.

Congress appropriated $875,000, a great deal less than originally requested by the State Department, and much too little to do the job.

At appropriations subcommittee hearings in Washington last March, Frank T. Bow of Ohio, the ranking Republican on the committee, wanted to know "what happened to that monstrosity called the Rothschild house."

Evasiveness Noted
What's happened, The Associated Press discovered in an investigation initially marked by official evasiveness, broken appointments and unreturned phone calls, is roughly this:

Of the $875,000 appropriations, $810,045 has either been spent or is committed to contractors. One expert estimate is that it will require $1.7 million more to finish the job.

Embassy officials are hopeful that the funds needed to complete work on the 129-year-old house can be raised by private subscription.

Dodgers' Sizemore Gets Rookie Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Sizemore, the versatile Los Angeles Dodgers infielder who alternated between shortstop and second base, was named today the Rookie-of-the-Year in the National League.

Sizemore, 24, converted into a shortstop by Manager Walter Alton last spring after spending 1968 in the minors as a catcher, won by a surprisingly large margin in the vote of a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America, two from each league city.

The seventh Dodger to win the rookie award received 14 votes in his landslide victory. Coco Laboy, Montreal third baseman, and Al Oliver, Pittsburgh first baseman, each received three votes. Bob Didier, Atlanta catcher, and Larry Hise, Philadelphia outfielder, each drew two votes.

The award, announced by Jack Lang, secretary-treasurer of the writers association was based on a secret vote that covered only regular season play.

It was the final award of the annual series by the writers, all of which went to players on different clubs.

Lou Piniella of Kansas City was the American League's top rookie. Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota won the American League's Most Valuable Player Award and Willie McCovey of San Francisco won the same MVP honors in the National League.

The Cy Young Award for pitchers was taken by Tom Seaver of New York in the National and shared by Denny McLain of Detroit and Mike Cuellar of Baltimore in the American.

Sizemore, 24, succeeded Johnny Bench, Cincinnati catcher, who was the 1968 winner. He joined such other former Dodger winners as Don Newcombe, Jackie Robinson Joe Black, Junior Gilliam, Frank Howard and Jim Lefebvre.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Sizemore taught in Detroit last winter but this year has been employed in the Dodgers' speaking bureau.

He hit .271 in 159 games and had 20 doubles, five triples, four homers and 46 runs batted in. He played 46 games at short until Maury Wills arrived in June and then 118 at second base, obviously splitting some games at both positions.

Laboy, who spent 10 years knocking around the minors before he got his chance in the major league expansion draft, was Montreal's regular third baseman hitting .253 with 18 homers and 83 RBI.

Oliver was beaten out by Bob Robertson in the battle for first base in the Pittsburgh camp last spring but took over the job and hit .285 with 17 homers and 70 RBI.

Didier, an unknown 20-year-old inherited the Braves' catching job after Joe Torre was traded to St. Louis and batted .256. He handled the tough job of catching Phil Niekro's knucklers and was a regular on a division winning team.

Hise, moving up from the farm system after recovering from an attack of hepatitis, was the Phil's center fielder in 1969, hitting .266 with 20 homers and knocking in 56 runs.

Carney Upends Redskin Quint

CARNEY — The Carney Wolves opened play in the 1969-70 basketball season by scoring a narrow 61-58 victory over the Hermansville Redskins Wednesday night in a Skyline Conference clash.

The two teams were tied at the end of the first quarter, but Carney jumped out to a four point lead at halftime and then held on to win in the second half.

Ed Benson, a 6 foot 5 inch sophomore, led the Wolves in the scoring department with 29 points on 11 field goals and seven free throws. He also pulled down 20 rebounds. John Perras was the only other Carney player to hit double figures with 18 points.

Tim Faccio led three Hermansville scorers in double figures with 16 points, while John Dani helped out with 14 and George Maule chipped in with 12.

From the field, Carney hit on 20 of 62 attempts and the Redskins were 24 of 56. The difference in the final score came at the free throw line, where Carney hit on 21 of 36 attempts, and Hermansville was 10 of 22.

Hermansville is now 0-2 on the season and will meet defending Skyline Conference champion Powers-Spalding at Powers on Dec. 2. Carney swings back into action on Dec. 5, playing host to National Mine.

The Carney junior varsity recorded a 55-33 victory in the preliminary game.

Knicks Hoping To Set Victory Mark Tonight

By The Associated Press

The New York Knicks, blazing along at a .957 clip, hope to set an all-time winning streak of 18 in a row in the National Basketball Association by beating the Cincinnati Royals in Cleveland tonight.

It's been 10 years since an NBA team has had the opportunity to establish such a historic milestone and a crowd of 10,000 is expected to see if the Knicks can succeed where the Washington Capitols of 1946 and the Boston Celtics of 1959 failed.

And what team foiled the Celtics on Dec. 30, 1959? None other than Cincinnati. Wouldn't it be something if the Royals did it again?

Bob Cousy, then a Celtic star and now player-coach of the Royals, said, "I don't remember very much about that game other than we must have played poorly and they must have played well."

The Knicks go into the game with a record of 22-1, straight from a 138-108 rout of the Atlanta Hawks Wednesday night when they equalled the NBA

Hockey Fighters Fined For Brawl

MONTREAL (AP) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, suspended John Ferguson, Montreal Canadiens left winger, for six games Thursday night and handed out a total of $5,775 in fines to two clubs and their players.

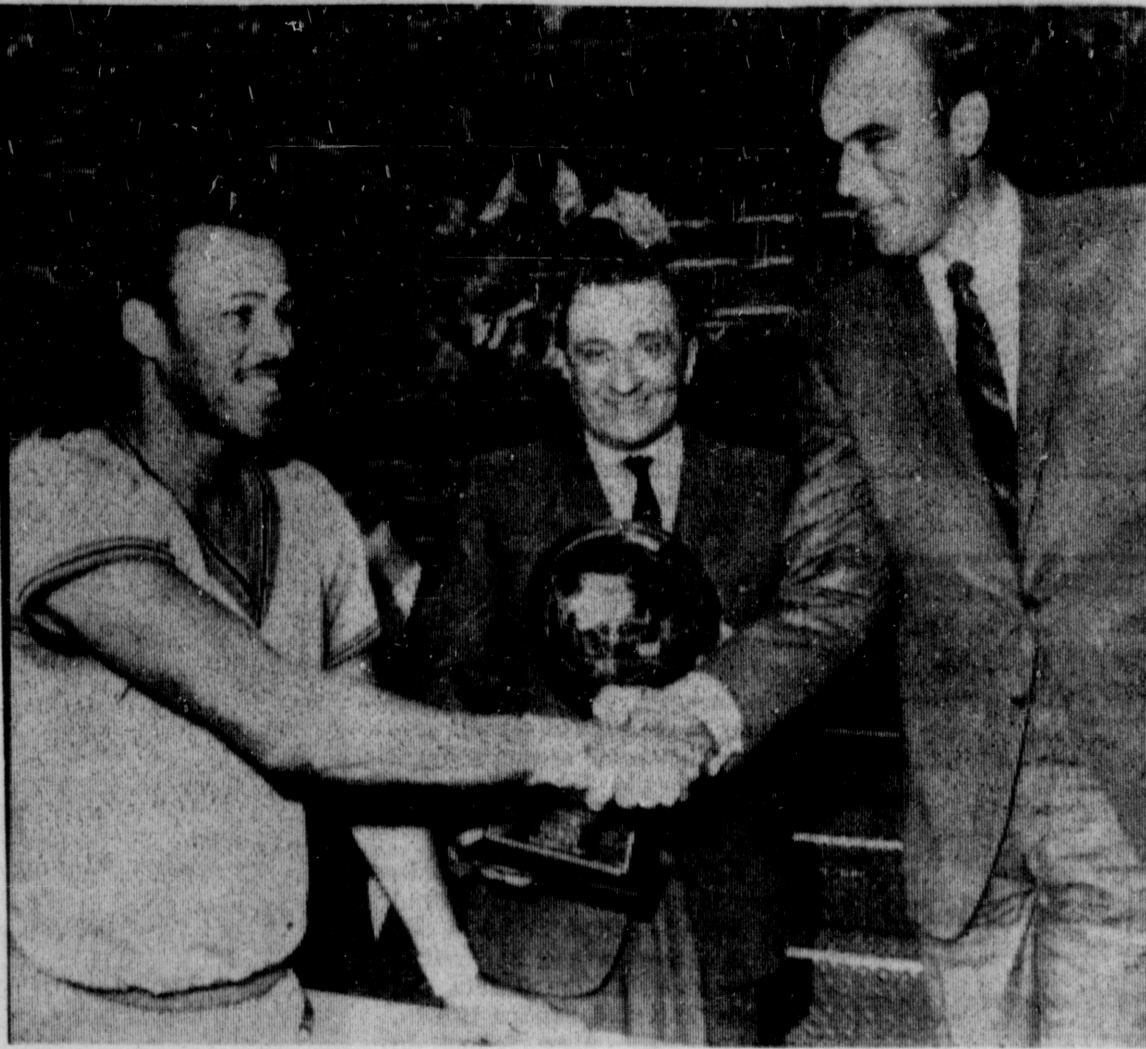

The penalties were the result of a stick-swinging incident between Ferguson and Gary Sabourin of the St. Louis Blues at St. Louis Nov. 15. The incident was followed by a general melee in which players from both teams left their benches.

Ferguson's suspension included Wednesday night's game against the Maple Leafs in Toronto, which he sat out by the president's order.

The NHL president slapped the St. Louis hockey club with a $2,000 fine for failing to stop its players' mass exodus from the bench and the Montreal club $1,000 for the same infraction.

The difference in the club fines was due to the fact that the Nov. 15 incident was the second violation by the Blues in successive games.

Texas, Arkansas Triumph In Annual Holiday Games

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M tried to grab a Texas Wishbone Thanksgiving Day and wound up empty-handed... and Texas Tech just got the bird from Arkansas.

Texas' bone-jarring Longhorns smashed Texas A&M 49-12 despite the Aggies' use of the Wishbone-T offense and Arkansas smothered Texas Tech 33-0 in traditional holiday games Thursday.

Their victories set up a classic battle between top-ranked Texas and second-ranked Arkansas on Dec. 6. Both undefeated in nine games, the Longhorns and Razorbacks meet that day for the Southwest Conference title, a spot in the Cotton Bowl and probably No. 1 ranking.

"We used the Wishbone-T to get fullback Steve Burks and tailback Larry Stegent into the game at the same time," said Texas Tech Coach Gene Stallings. "Our line just wasn't blocking as good as needed."

Stallings added: "Texas is as good a football team as I've ever seen. I know they're the best I've ever played. They are better than I thought."

Arkansas' brutish linemen gobbled up Red Raiders' quarterback Charles Napper.

"Our defense was magnificent," exulted Razonback Coach Frank Broyles.

In the day's only other major game, 14th-ranked Mississippi clouted Mississippi State 48-22 behind the artistry of Archie Manning.

Elsewhere, Virginia Tech blasted Virginia Military 52-0; Louisville stopped Tulsa 35-29; Wofford defeated Furman 31-21; New Mexico state whipped Colorado State 21-20 and in the first bowl game of the season, Hutchinson, Kan., Junior College whipped Nassau Community College, N.Y., 32-7 in the Sterling Bowl at Sterling, Kan.

The Longhorns' nation-leading rushers roamed all over the Aggies' defense. Jim Bertelson raced 63 yards for a touchdown on the fourth play of the game — and the Longhorns were off and running for 330 yards.

Commenting on the Aggies' use of the Wishbone-T, a pet Texas offense, Longhorn Coach Darrell Royal quipped: "I forgot which team to root for. Not really, I'm not color-blind."

Meanwhile, in Little Rock, Arkansas was having a regular Thanksgiving Day picnic with Texas Tech. The Razorbacks intercepted five passes and dumped Napper nine times.

"Our game plan against a team that likes to throw is to blitz," said Broyles. "If we are successful we stay with it. And we were successful today."

Veteran Karras Keeps On Going

DETROIT (AP) — Alex Karras, the veteran standout defensive tackle for the Detroit Lions, played in Thursday's 27-0 loss to Minnesota despite a severely sprained right knee.

"It took a lot of guts and courage for him," said Detroit coach Joe Schmidt afterwards. "Doctors took 20 cc's of water out of his knee before the game. It was really swollen," he added.

Karras walked to the shower, dragging his right foot behind him.

"Oh, it's okay now," he said. "It's better than it was."

"He's had his best year and I hope he gets the all-pro recognition he deserves," Schmidt said.

Vikings Top Lions; Snare League Title

DETROIT (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings had a feast on Thanksgiving Day and the Detroit Lions were the turkeys.

And the Lions got the stuffing knocked out of them as they fell 27-0 to the Vikings and gave Minnesota the Central Division title of the National Football League free and clear.

It was the first time Detroit has been shutout this year. Last year the Lions were shutout once — on Thanksgiving Day 12-0 by Philadelphia under sloppy playing conditions much like they faced Thursday in a blizzard at Tiger Stadium.

It was primarily the onslaught of Minnesota's fearsome front four of Carl Eller, Gary Larsen, Alan Page and Jim Marshall that gave Detroit problems, together with the bad field position the Lions found themselves in all day.

The snow came down so hard in the first quarter it was hard to see and both teams found difficult going on the slushy ground.

But Paul Dickson blocked a Lem Barney punt and the Vikings recovered on Detroit's 16 in the first quarter. Four plays later Dave Osborn leaped into the end zone for the first Minnesota touchdown.

The rest of the game was like that, with the Vikings never passing up an opportunity.

"It was one of those kind of ballgames where we got the first break and that was it," said Minnesota coach Bud Grant. "If they got the first break, maybe it would have been the other way around."

The win gave Minnesota a 10-1 record and Detroit dropped to 7-4. Even if the Vikings lose their last three games and the Lions win, Minnesota would go to the playoff because they beat Detroit twice.

Defensive end Jim Marshall recovered a Nick Eddy fumble in Detroit territory in the third quarter and six plays later Joe Kapp hit Oscar Reed with a six-yard touchdown pass.

Marshall teamed with defensive tackle Alan Page for a fourth-quarter Minnesota score. Page tipped a Greg Landry pass. Marshall intercepted it at the Lions 41 and rumbled to the 12 where he pitched back to Page who chugged into the end zone for the score.

Fred Cox connected with a pair of field goals for the other Vikings points. He kicked a 41-yarder in the second quarter and added a 31-yard field goal in the final period.

He missed on 50 and 46-yard tries, but the object was to put the Lions deep in their own territory, where they stayed most of the time.

Errol Mann attempted a 27-yard field goal late in the second quarter, and an 18-yarder on the final play of the game, but both were blocked. Only once in the first half did Detroit get beyond its own 36.

In the second half the Lions got as far as the 12 of Minnesota once, and up to the 47 another time and that was all.

Landry suffered a sprained right shoulder late in the game but may be ready for the next game a week from Sunday at Baltimore. Bill Munson, who had been out of action for six games with an injury, replaced him in the waning moments of the game.

In three other Thanksgiving Day games, Dallas tied San Francisco 24-24 in the NFL, while Kansas City trounced Denver 31-17 and San Diego upset Houston 21-17 in the American Football League.

Dallas lost a chance to win when, with 12 seconds left, tackle Charlie Krueger blocked Mike Clark's 37-yard field goal attempt. The tie left Dallas with an 8-2-1 record and a 1½-game lead over Washington in the Capitol Division.

The Cowboys gained the tie when Lance Rentzel made a sensational catch of Craig Morton's 19-yard touchdown pass with 4:13 left. San Francisco, 2-7-2, tied the game on Momoilo Gavril's 21-yard field goal and moved in front on John Brodie's 19-yard pass to Gene Washington.

Linebacker Bobby Bell returned a kickoff 53 yards for a touchdown and Jan Stenerud kicked a league-record 11th straight field goal, a 16-yarder, as Kansas City boosted its record to 10-2 and moved to within percentage points of first-place Oakland in the Western Division. Warren McVea ran for two touchdowns and Emmitt Thomas scored with an interception as the Chiefs built up a 24-3 lead over Denver, 4-7-1.

Kenny Graham's 19-yard run with an interception produced the winning touchdown for San Diego, 6-6, which fought back from a 17-7 deficit.

Wings Break Winless Streak Against Kings

By The Associated Press

Frank Mahovlich scored twice and the Detroit Red Wings snapped a six-game winless streak with a 5-1 victory over the Los Angeles Kings in one of two National Hockey League games Thursday.

Boston beat Philadelphia 6-4 in the other game.

Wings goalie Roger Crozier, going for his first shutout since Oct. 22, 1967, lost the shutout with 1:22 to play when rookie Butch Goring picked off a Detroit pass and scored.

Gordie Howe assisted on two of the Red Wing goals, one by Pete Stenkowski and Mahovlich's second marker, to run his career regular season point total to 1,701.

While the Wings jumped over Chicago and regained fourth place in the NHL's Eastern Division, the Kings continued to have problems.

Los Angeles, which is on a nine-game trip with two games left, has only one tie in its last nine starts.

The Wings scored in every period with Wayne Connely getting them started at 12:55 of the first period when he lifted Alex Delvecchio's rebound over Kings' goalie Gerry Desjardins. Mahovlich also assisted.

Mahovlich got his first goal at 17:56 on a first period power play. Stenkowski fired in his own rebound after taking a pass from Howe, at 6:05 of the second period.

Mahovlich scored his second goal at 12:41 of the second period, on a slapshot from 25 feet, and Garry Unger, who assisted on that one, scored one of his own at 13:16 of the final period.

Wing defenseman Gary Gergman missed the game with a severe charley horse sustained Wednesday in Philadelphia, and snapped his string of consecutive games at 242, going back to 1965-66 season.

Bobby Orr sure knows how to pick a way to break out of a slump—at least, what's considered a slump for him.

The Boston veteran, who had gone four games without a goal and two without a point, slammed home a pair of 55-footers and helped set up another goal Thursday night to power the Bruins to a 6-4 National Hockey League victory over Philadelphia.

Orr's production gave him the undisputed NHL scoring lead. He entered the game tied with Phil Goyette of St. Louis, who was idle Thursday night, but now leads the race with six goals and 27 assists for 33 points.

Orr's first long slapshot, while the Flyers were a man short, tied it 2-2 in the first period. Then he put the Bruins ahead on his next blast midway in the second session.

However, Philadelphia's Jim Johnson, who had produced the Flyers' first two goals, helped set up Bill Sutherland's equalizer at 1:26 of the third period.

But, a few minutes later the Bruins came up with the decisive tallies. John Bucyk tipped in his own rebound on a power play at 6:09 and Johnny McKenzie also converted his own rebound just 19 seconds later.

Gary Dornhoefer sliced the margin to one less than a minute later, but Phil Esposito gave the Bruins an insurance marker at 13:42.

Hairston Dealt To Laker Squad

DETROIT (AP) — Harold "Happy" Hairston got his Thanksgiving wish Thursday — to be traded away from the Detroit Pistons and coach Bill Van Breda Kolff.

"I don't play and nobody gives me a valid reason why I don't play," Hairston recently told a Detroit sportswriter. "So I want to be traded to some team that's at least got a chance."

The 6-foot-7 forward was traded to the Los Angeles Lakers Thursday for forward Billy Hewitt, an undisclosed amount of cash and a future National Basketball Association draft choice.

Hairston, a Detroit starter for about 1½ years, was relegated mainly to bench duties this year.

Earlier this month, Hairston criticized Van Breda Kolff's strategy and also told of clashes with the coach, who moved to Detroit from Los Angeles after last season.

Contacted in Philadelphia Thursday, Van Breda Kolff did not discuss personalities, but said "The way things were going, we weren't getting much out of him."

He also praised Hewitt, also 6-7, as being "good defensively and very quick." The 25-year-old was the Lakers' No. 1 draft choice in 1968 after an outstanding career at the University of Southern California.

Hairston, playing his fifth professional season, could not be contacted for comment Thursday. However, in an interview earlier this month with Detroit News columnist Pete Waldmeir he said when the Pistons started "training camp we were told there would be two or three shooters and the rest of the squad was supposed to just pass them the ball. Look, I wouldn't even mind that strategy if it worked. But it doesn't."

The Pistons are in sixth place in the NBA's East Division with a 7-12 record, while Los Angeles is second in the West Division with an 11-10 mark.

Hairston, a New York University product, also said he asked Van Breda Kolff during the training season to "quit making remarks about how lazy I was and about how many Cadillac he saw parked outside. I told him none of us needed that kind of stuff."

Hairston will join the Lakers for tonight's game with the San Francisco Warriors at the Forum in Los Angeles. Hewitt will join Detroit tonight in Philadelphia.

Lakers general manager Fred Schaus said, "Hairston is a player the Lakers have been trying to get for several months. We hate to lose a player of Bill's outstanding character, but Hairston will give us more scoring punch and offensive rebounding."

The Lakers have been struggling without injured superstars Elgin Baylor and Wilt Chamberlain. Another mainstay, Jerry West, sprained an ankle in the Lakers' 100-81 loss to Milwaukee Wednesday. When West will return to action was not immediately known.

Hairston, 27, has an NBA career scoring average of 14.4 points per game. At Detroit last season he averaged 18.1 points per game.

Hewitt stands 6-7 and weighs 210. Last year he averaged 7.2 points per game and was named to the NBA all-rookie team. In 20 games this season he has averaged 3.3 points and 7 rebounds per game.

The genuine La-Z-Boy (R) Reclina-Rocker (R) adjusts to every mood . . . rocking, lounging, watching TV, reading, reclining, even to full bed. La-Z-Boy's Comfort Selector footrest provides just the right comfort independent of the reclining action of the chair. You have your choice of outstanding colors, fabrics and vinyls. Dad will love America's comfort favorite. It's the gift he'll enjoy year around. There are many imitations, but only one genuine La-Z-Boy chair.
